THERE'S MORE TO THANKSGIVING
THAN TURKEY MEAT

There are big things to be thankful for, and to try to deserve, and there are also little, close to home things to be thankful for, and to strive to improve.
And so today, after being grateful in a million ways that we live in the United States of America, why should we not in Lombard take time out for a bit of close focussing on some of the things that we can veach out and touch and appreciate—and build?

We have splendid church or ga nl z at 1 on n. We wouldn't live in a Lombard without them. But do we ust "have" them or are we doing all that we might to give them life and power in the community? We have excellent, well administered schools. Are they the seat we can afford, on the basis of both money and effort? They are not. It is a plain fact that our pubtee grade school system is laboring under the very serious handicap of sub-standard teacher salaries as well as a sub-standard teacher quota. Lombard resilents are not alive to that handicap or they would not observe it. Lombard is enjoying a vigilant, aggressive leaderhip in its local governments. That is fairly a fact, but sublic schools.

Lombard is enjoying a vigilant aggressive leaderhip in its local governments. That is fairly a fact, but submy many know and appreciate it? Leat Monday sight, the village boar could as well have met in a were-man born shelter. It could have fired the police and of all local services. Nobody would have cared.

50, not much! But it is true that not a taxpayer was resent to indicate an interest in the matter. And noody will attend the next meeting, that is, unless one

S-H-R-A-P-N-E-L

I recall a poem I heard once a couple of yea. It was written by a college classmate of mi Helen Cederberg of Marinette, Wis. . . . and t was "Thankfulness."

Transition of Marinette, Wis. and the tile was "Thankightees."

Today is Thankegiving day. Not a day to pamper consell, to lold in an oversturfied chair being considerably overstuffed oneself.) But It's a day to look about, to see the things too often overlooked. and to give thanks for them.

So let's skip the usual banter this week. Let's not call attention to the entirent Lawyer Potts who was an enthusiastic Wilkies booster until after election when he appeared with a Roosevelt sticker on his art. Let's not even mention the rumor that Mr. Unterberg hid all his belongings in his garage while the Epiphany church rummage asle was going on. We'll carefully cover our happy Howitzer. . and turn to thoughts more appropriate.

I wrote to Helen and she replied by sending a topy of her poem for you to read.

Thankfulness

For soft rugs, for flowers, for fam'tes like ours; for fam'tes like ours; for prayer, for prayer, for prayer, for prayer, for prayer, for prayer, for live, giouving coals; for sidence that fills, for sidence that fills, for shadows on hills, for chandsows on hills, for chandsows on hills, for kind things we've said; for gray goods to sew; for small things at play; for dawning, for May; for dear, laughing lips, for dawning, for May; for white sails on ships; for china Blue plates; for kettles that sing; for lips in spring; for Thy love as broad as time—thank Thee, God!

thankful for today. There are the folks who run our clubs, the folks who give us friendly service over the counter, our good neighbors and friends. There are the parents who hammered a certain amount of common sense into our heads, the write or husband who is in there trying and wouldn't mind knowing that it is appreciated. There are the youngsters we love, and who will love us more lastingly if we honestly try to teach them responsibility. If we fail, our churches and schools haven't a chance.
