Over Sixty Trees Shade Beautiful Yard of Clarence Jameson on Windsor Avenue

(The Spectator will welcome suggestions regarding lovely and unusual gardens in the community.)

By Sybil Hansen

Over sixty trees and many different shrubs shade the beautiful yard and gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Jameson, 342 West Windsor avenue. A neatly clipped hedge of privet surrounds the front yard and shades of pink petunias border the walk leading to the front porch. In the spring this walk is edged with tulip, bridal wreath and honeysuckle bushes grow around the front porch while several lilacs and a flowering crab are scattered throughout the front yard. Two very sharply cut talpa trees provide shade for this portion of the yard.

At the side of the house are many different colored petunias. A trellis bearing roses in the early summer covers one side of the garage.

In the back yard a circular rock garden creates a beautiful spectacle. One bed contains red and yellow nasturtiums, blue, white, and pink asters, and is edged with blue ageratum. Another is made up of red, orange, yellow, pink, and purple asters.

Meet the Younger Generation

Six year old Lee Gastin is the handsome son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gastin of 647 North Elizabeth street. The baby pictured on the right is Marie Olski, 6 months and daughter of the E. H. Olsens of 641 North Elizabeth street.

FAILURE LOOMS FOR THOSE WHO FOLLOW "BOOMS"

Workers who leave Lombard in the hope of getting jobs in various industries in other cities or states are doomed to almost certain failure and disappointment, R. C. Chasin, manager of the Illinois State Employment Service at Wheaton, said this week.

"There is employment boom in industries stimulated by the national outdoor program but tempted many workers to make futile migrations in search of these jobs," the employment office manager said.

"Many persons, for example, have rushed to the motor centers of Michigan, the shipyards of Texas, the airplane factories in California, or the steel mill towns in Pennsylvania in search of jobs. When they arrived there, they found that the industries had all the manpower they needed.

"Disappointed and broke, many of these workers have had to write to relatives and relatives for money to sustain home or depend upon public relief," the local employment office manager pointed out. "And in many states transients are not provided with public relief."

Unemployed Should Register
Chasin stressed the fact that most industrial towns in which the rearmament program has caused an increase in employment have a sufficient supply of workers to meet their needs for the present time. While there is an increasing demand for certain types of highly skilled workers in some communities, a worker who leaves home in search of one of these jobs is usually out on a "wild goose chase."

"Skilled workers who wish to be considered for vacancies that may occur in industries in any part of the country as a result of the National Defense program do not have to leave home to apply for these jobs," Manager Chasin said. "All they have to do is register at the local state employment office located at 106 East Liberty Drive, Wheaton."

Leukemia Cure May Be Near, Experiments Show

Hope that a cure may soon be found for chronic leukemia, dread disease of the blood from which no one has been known to recover, was held out by Dr. William P. Murphy, of the Peter Bent hospital in Boston.

Dr. Murphy describes experiments which lead him to believe that the disease, which is marked by an increase of white corpuscles in the blood, may be cured by the destruction of some substance that would normally control these corpuscles. Future research, he says, will probably reveal the nature of the substance and some satisfactory method of supplying it to the patient.

Wheeler's International dictionary defines leukemia as "a morbid state of the blood, characterized by the formation of an excessive number of leucocytes in the blood."

Dr. Murphy criticized the common method of treating chronic leukemia, which he said consisted in giving the patient large doses of X-rays when his blood showed a high count of white corpuscles, or leucocytes.

When the leucocyte count is high, said, the patient suffers from nausea and loss of appetite, but under the heavy X-ray dosage these symptoms increase even though the leucocyte count goes down. By time he is again able to eat his leucocyte count has risen and another treatment is necessary. These constant relapses both discourage him from accepting treatment and interfere with his normal life.

By giving X-rays in small frequent doses, however, Dr. Murphy said he had found it possible to keep the patient's leucocyte count close to normal without upsetting his stomach or his appetite.

This discovery suggested to him that the disease may result from the deficiency of some controlling substance, just as pernicious anemia results from a deficiency of an anti-pernicious anemia factor.

"The deficient factor in leukemia is supplied in some manner by X-ray exposure in small dosage, probably less satisfactorily by large dosage, which may also act to destroy cells," he said.

YOUNG PEOPLE URGED TO JOIN RALLY AT MOODY

Calling that many modern youths are not offering youth a "living message," the Rev. Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of the Moody Bible institute of Chicago, urged the organization of youth by the church.

He said that the spiritual war face will be fought in the Institute building between August 30 to September 10 at the fifth annual Youth Conference to be held in the newly-erected three-story structure, 540 N. LaSalle street. Outstanding speakers and leaders of the country will address the morning and evening sessions, which will begin on Friday evening.

International emphasis rests upon the conference. Young persons from all churches have been invited, and many have already registered. Reservations from outside the Chicago area had completely filled all available housing space in the Institute's buildings by the first of the month.

WILKIE CHALLENGES US ALL

Wendell L. Wilkie Republican nominee for President, has spoken. He has issued his challenge. No, not the challenge to a series of "Lambert-Douglass" debates that whipped the plain multitude at Elwood into a stormy sea of applause. That was probably just a rhetorical flourish and our popular offensive move but one that will come to nothing. Wilkie's real challenge the one he meant in dead earnest—followed immediately after. In simple terms he asked the American people if they had the guts to travel with him, the hard way to national sovereignty, national recovery and national safety. He asked the American people to quit fooling around and get down to brass tacks. He said in effect, "Why do we fear Hitler? The American way is so far superior that if we really do, to work we need have no fear of a dozen Hitlers. But if we are to quit fooling around we must quit the American way of 'getting by' we will have to relearn some good old lessons in personal honesty and decency we will have to respect the rights of others, in short we will have to take a spiritual bath and come clean. That sounds like a Sunday school lesson but if it were not for the blood suckers in our community life and in our politics, our organized business, our organized labor, our organized crime and disgraced war veterans sitting on top of the world and we agree at the Wilkie challenge goes all the way home."

LET'S KEEP OUR STANDARDS UP

In spite of continued depression, the people of the United States are blessed with the highest living standards that civilization has ever known. We are the envy of the world's automobile, half of its telephone and forty per cent of its radio. We consume a third of the world's coffee sugar and electric energy better than half of its rubber and silk. The mechanical labor saving device in the hands of American workers are the envy of even the wealthy people. Our personal standards are up. We shall build once a day instead of once a week or month. We have learned to loathe unclean teeth and unclean some breaths. All this had to be sold to us. We did not just happen to gratefully appear. People don't do that. It would be untrue to say that advertising did all this for the people of the United States. But it is entirely true that advertising inspired and stimulated it. It is the job of advertising to quicken the exchange of goods in the nation's market places. To fulfill its mission, advertising not only tells you about these goods but tries to excite your desire for them; it pictures them as a means toward lightening your burdens, increasing your leisure, enhancing your home and family, putting more satisfaction into your life. Advertising should be encouraged to go on in its cheerful, constructive way, helping to build the nation to greater economic strength, maintaining our standards through whatever may come to us in our troubled world.

TALL TALES OF EARLY ILLINOIS by Federal Writers' Project

Residents of southern Illinois in the latter part of the nineteenth century formed an association the purpose of which was to "boom" their section of the state to prospective settlers. In 1890, the executive committee of the Southern Illinois Immigration and Improvement association, meeting in Carbondale, passed out 4200 "ad prices" for the best news on the subject of booming Southern Illinois. The price was 42 cents each to be published in pamphlet form and scattered throughout the East as advertising matter. Ten years earlier residents of the north-central part of the state, situated prior to settle in the state by or some, a newspaper account estimated in 1870 that about 1200 passenger tickets had been sent that year "to bring emigrants from the west coast."

Travel Far to Find Smithy

Blacksmith shops in pioneer Illinois days were few in number that early settlers often traveled scores of miles to find a smithy. In 1825, a resident of such journey, for example, reveals that two Illinois county pioneers in need of new ploughshares were forced to travel 165 miles to and from the site of a blacksmith shop starting from the mouth of Illinois creek. Settlers set out on a journey for grinding, where they knew a shop had been established. When they arrived at Peoria, however, they found that the smithy had been moved to Peoria. The trip took nine days time, and, young people need admit, it cost them an awful lot of money.

Thousands of Redwoods Protected by New Park

Thousands of acres ranging from seedlings to magnificent patriarchs estimated to be between 2,000 and 5,000 years old, have permanent protection as a result of the establishment of Redwood Canyon National park in California. Approximately 450,000 acres of some of the most beautiful wilderness scenery in the United States comprise this area which includes Redwood mountain and adjoins Sequoia National park. Hereforth, the four square miles comprising General Grant National park, adjacent to the new area, where are conserved two splendid groves of sequoia gigantea, will comprise the General Grant section of Redwood Canyon National park. In his book, "The Living Past," Dr. John C. Merriam, of the Carnegie Institution, thus expresses the sentiment of one conveyed by these ancient trees, oldest of living things: "The mysterious influence of these groves strikes not alone from magnificent, but also from groves of light filling spaces. It is as if in these trees the lives of years were held in stasis, and one could see together the forest as it was centuries of time pervades the forest with an influence more subtle than light, but that to the mind is not less real."

Labor Boards Not New

Labor relations boards are as old as the hills—or nearly so—according to a recent research. The first labor relations board was appointed in 1864.

The general court passed a ruling that year which provided for the appointment of three men to hear cases of labor disputes. The ruling was as follows: "It is ordered that hereafter no employer shall be liable to pay the full cost of his own suit for the appointment of three men that shall sit in appeal case thereon; also it is ordered that hereafter a day for review may be allowed to all workmen; and no law shall allow them more than three days."

Insulation Patriarch

The great art of modern mass production is the art of making things that are not made by hand. In 1864, the first railroad was built in the state of Illinois. The first American saw the great value of this and accordingly in 1867, the first American saw mill was built in Peoria. It was the first American saw mill to be equipped with a steam engine, and it was the first American saw mill to be equipped with a steam engine. It was the first American saw mill to be equipped with a steam engine, and it was the first American saw mill to be equipped with a steam engine.

If It's Heavily Advertised It Has to be Good. OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy. One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "policen" itself.

Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios—you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

LOMBARD GROUP LOST BUT HAPPY IN ELWOOD HOST

 That not more DuPage county people had been aroused to take advantage of so unique an occasion and one that may gain a lasting niche in the history of the times.
 Aside from those who may have driven their own cars to Elwood or traveled on one of the special trains the DuPage apostle, Peter Burke rode down on a union men's special train from Chicago.
 Victor L. Cressner, Richard Goldbach, Charles E. Hall, Alfred and E. W. Hammerstein, John E. McCoy, Robert L. McKee, Mrs. Lellouy Mos, Sid Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oetker and L. S. Whitbeck, all aboard the DuPage apostle, were present from Chicago.
 W. F. Hammerstein, supervisor, Assistant A. L. Long and Louis Rankin were York township officials in attendance. Ralph Finlayson of the township office had charge of a little band that led the DuPage marchers into Elwood and helped with the serenade program enroute.

Lombard Man Writes Article on Selling

Walter J. Auburn, 348 West Grove street, admitted the difficulty of having one of his articles published this month in a widely distributed professional magazine for salesman. Mr. Auburn's article, "The Purchasing-Sales Equation," was printed first in the Red Barrel and was then copied for publication in the Sales Scrap Book.
 Mr. Auburn is employed as purchasing agent for the Genard company, Inc. of Chicago, and from such a position he wrote to salesmen telling them the most satisfactory ways to get themselves and their products across to purchasing agents.

Two Cabbages in Vegetable Garden

An oddity of the vegetable kingdom was presented to The Spectator last Monday afternoon by Ray Maas, 53 South Lombard avenue. The vegetable a twin cabbage, was grown in Maas' garden. Truck stalks branching from the root like a 'Y' held the two good sized heads some four inches above the ground.
 Besides the ordinary run of vegetables, Maas grows a variety of unusual plants.

75 Republican Women Attended Club Social

More than seventy-five Lombard women spent an enjoyable afternoon Wednesday, August 14 at the first party to be held under the auspices of the Lombard Republican Women's club. The group gathered at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Smith, 441 South Highland avenue for a delectable luncheon at 1 p. m. after which Mrs. Anna Ziborn introduced the speaker for the occasion.
 Mrs. N. G. Symonds of Hinsdale, a personal friend of the Wilkie family, acquainted the women with the Republican candidate for president, and Mrs. Lettie Honan of Neil suggested a program of activity for Republican women. The balance of the afternoon was given over to a wide variety of games with a large selection of attractive prizes for all high score players.

Actual paid membership of the Lombard Republican Women's club now totals 51 and the organizing committee hopes that all Republican women in this vicinity will affiliate themselves with the group. Prospective members desiring information may communicate with the following: Mesdames Evelyn Smith, 158-B, Minnie Oetker, 490, Irene Bach, 657, Anna Ziborn, 459, Ethel Kavel, 582-B, or Clara L. A. Twenty-Five Girls Return from Camp

Last Sunday saw the return of 25 sun-browned Lombard girls from Phantom lake camp. With them spent twelve days at the camp under the supervision of Mrs. Ryall of Wheaton.
 As a climax to the camp period, the regular, much anticipated torch ceremony was held on midnight Friday. At that time bronze and silver torches were presented to some of the girls for outstanding activities. The three silver torches given all went to Lombard girls: Eleanor Mayer, Vida Tamburino and Ruth Butler. Jean Anderson and Elisee Marquardt were awarded bronze torches for the first time, and Junior life saving belts were passed by Vida Tamburino and Jane Harless.
 Local girls who attended the camp period were besides the three mentioned: Mrs. J. J. ...

First Canadian Casualty

Julien Darnot, 36, an electrician of Vancouver, B. C., was the first Canadian casualty of the European war to arrive in New York. He remains his left eye and nearly blind in his right eye. He sailed for France in January on February 12 he was shot and sent to the front of the line, but he was fortunate not to be killed.
 But the Germans already had mined the area, he said, and when his party started digging his eyes were also killed by two exploding shells.
 The story also brought two other distinguished Canadians—Sergeant Richard, 46, of St. Pierre, Quebec, fisherman who the government would be more valuable in the navy, and Louis Anglin, 58, of St. Laurent, Manitoba, farmer, and father of nine children, discharged because officials thought he was aged and unfit for active service.

Wiggle Your Toes

If women would take their shoes and stockings and wiggle their toes, they would become more comfortable, according to Dr. Thomas Boyd of the Massachusetts Academy of Podiatry.
 "Wiggle your toes, girls, if you want to increase your efficiency," the doctor said.
 "There is no special way to wiggle, just single. It does for the feet what a deep breath of moving air does for the lungs."
 Dr. Boyd also pleaded with women to wear lower heels to avoid "spraying stomach ailments and the like bearing down of pressure."

Ol' Cowhands Hold Neighborhood Roundup on West Maple Street

Thirty-four representatives of fourteen families attended the "Neighbor Roundup" held last Saturday evening, August 17, at the "B-K Ranch."
 Cowhands "Tex" Barg, "Tiny" Thompson, "Butch" Peck, and "Luce" Klapp, all residents in the 400 block West Maple street, planned and ran off the entertainment for the purpose of promoting good will and good times in their neighborhood. The "B-K Ranch" is made up of the adjoining properties of Barg and Klapp, just south of the tracks. An outdoor fireplace lent itself to barbecuing, and flood lights illuminated the double lot.
 Square Dance
 Entertainment centered around attempts at the old-fashioned square dance for which a phonograph and radio provided the necessary rhythm. Refreshments of "foam milk, barbecue sides, silted potatoes, and pink lemonade" were served by the appropriately named "Inappropriately" nick-named Thompson.
 The neighbors are already clamoring for other similar parties. A regular barn dance is being seriously considered for the next get together.
 Expenses for the entertainments are met by admission charges. At the "Roundup," a "tariff" was set up amounting to fifty cents for the "big" size and twenty-five cents for the "jany size" visitors.

REV. WATSON TO PREACH

The Rev. Robert James Watson, pastor of the First church, expects to be home from his western trip the end of this week and will address his congregation on Sunday morning at the usual time.

What we'd like to tell "the gentleman above" is that there really isn't much cause to worry. Just come in to Miller Brothers and they will put it in tip-top shape at a reasonable cost.
